

Fig.3: A cut through a vesicle with diameter 28 nm containing small, rigid nanoparticles, each approximately 4 nm in width. The nanoparticles experience effectively attractive interactions with the vesicle membrane. As the membrane wraps around a nanoparticle, it tends to bulge outwards forming a particle-induced bud, see upper right part of membrane.